| | intention of the authors was to interpret the above issues from the aspect of selected questions important for understanding the foreign language learning/teaching in the system of life-long training of police officers with emphasis on the use of e-learning in improving the quality of service activities performed by police officers. The authors pointed out the fact that the Border and Foreign Police Service will have an irreplaceable place in the implementation of measures taken by the European Union institutions in the field of irregular migration. The uniqueness of the output is enhanced by the analysis and interpretation of the results of empirical research to verify the effectiveness of the e-learning method in the international police environment. According to the criteria of the Scientific Board of the Academy of the Police Force in Bratislava stipulating the classification of outputs, it is a scientific monograph of an objective significance with global impact on the development of teaching and learning foreign languages for police purposes, therefore, the authors allowed themselves to classify the output in the A+ category. |

In addition, they analysed the institutional arrangements foreign language learning in individual countries. The originality of this output lies in the interpretation of language training harmonization in terms of the need to standardise the terminology base for border and foreign police for EU Member States in order to strengthen the language skills of police officers during joint operations at the EU's external borders coordinated by the European Border and Coast Guard Agency. The uniqueness of this output lies in the fact that the authors designed an effective and comprehensive model of professional language training and prepared proposals and recommendations for the process of harmonisation of common language standards at the European level. According to the criteria of the Scientific Board of the Academy of the Police Force in Bratislava stipulating the classification of outputs, it is a scientific monograph of an objective significance with global impact on the development of teaching and learning foreign languages for police purposes, therefore, the authors allowed themselves to classify the output in the A+ category. |
